Christmas Celebration Once Illegal

Celebration of Christmas — the most widely observed religious holiday of the modern world — was at one time illegal in early American history.

Colonial New England did not celebrate Christmas, according to researchers at Congress's National Encyclopedia. Some of the early Puritan colonists believed that such activities were wholly pagan and forbade them by law.

Christmas came to the American colonies while it was the subject of strenuous controversy in England. English Puritans condemned it as "Papist" and the secular celebration as a "wanton Dutchman's feast."

Opposition of the English Puritans to festivities culminated in an act of Parliament 1582 which abolished the observance of Christmas. Easter and Whitbourne were the only religious holidays left.

The law was repealed in 1661 but many of the Puritans were not reconciled to this action. Several revealing at Christmas had often interfered with religious devotion and offended the Puritans' moral sense. This intensified their sectarian hostility to the religious observance of Christmas — an attitude they maintained for the better part of two centuries in parts of New England.

The fan-loving Dutch colonists of New Amsterdam, celebrated Christmas as their chief holiday. They brought the old customs from their homeland, especially the Christmas stocking and observance of the feast day of St. Nicholas.

In the Southern colonies, the planters celebrated the yuletide with feasting, singing, and dancing. On many plantations slaves were given a holiday as long as the great yule log burned.

The latter half of the eighteenth century saw a swing of attention to the realm of economics and politics and religious controversies became of less importance. The fact that English and Hessian troops celebrated Christmas during the Revolutionary War may have added a patriotic note to the denominational controversy.

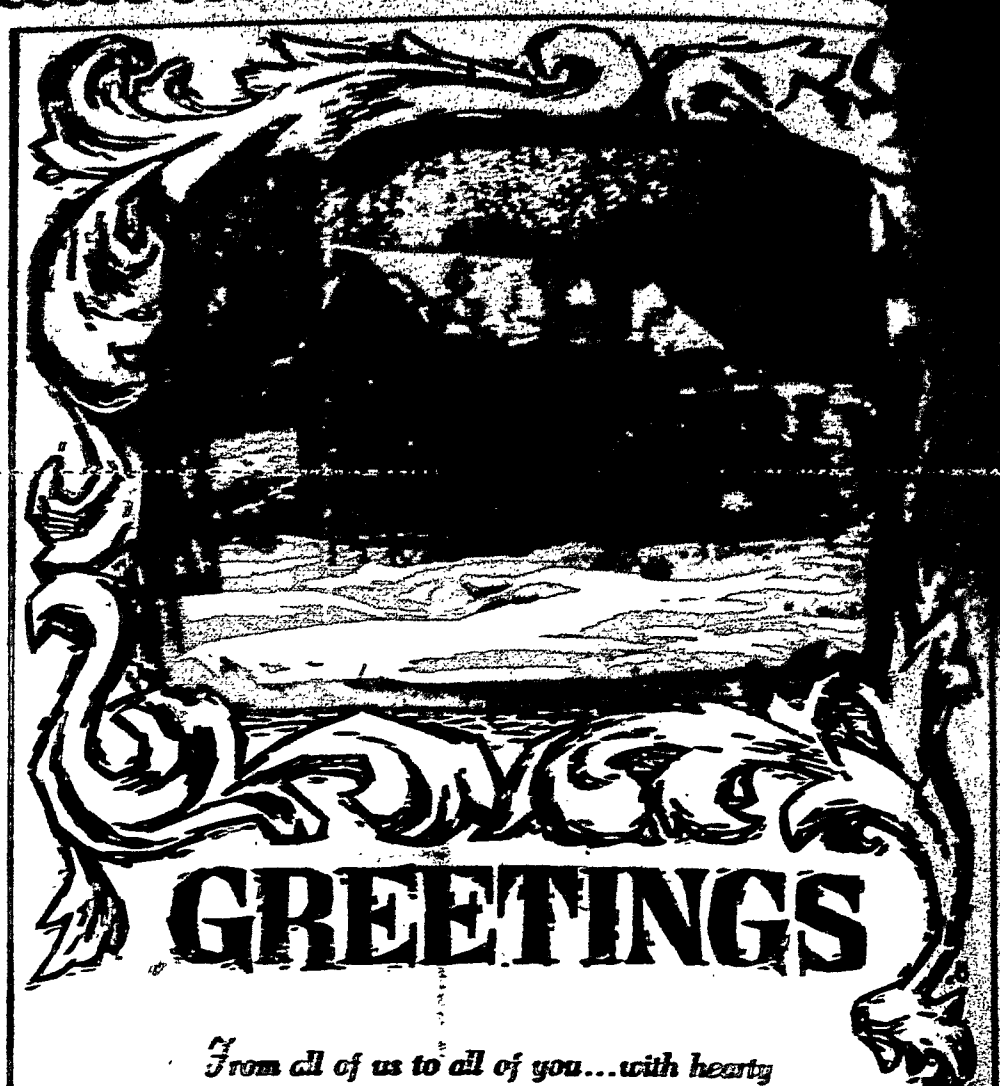

General Washington crossed the Delaware River on the night of December 25, 1776, to surprise and defeat the Hessian troops stationed at Trenton, N. J. In the opinion of one writer, Washington's bold venture succeeded because the Hessians were enjoying their customary Christmas revels and failed to maintain the usual watch and patrol.

However, denominational opposition to the ecclesiastic observance of Christmas continued into the second half of the nineteenth century. An account in the New York Daily Times for December 25, 1855 read:

"The churches of the Presbyterians, Baptists, and Methodists were not open on Dec. 25 except where some Mission Schools had a celebration. They do not accept the day as a Holy One, but the Episcopal, Catholic and German Churches were all open. Inside they were decked with evergreens."

In the twentieth century, all denominations have embraced Christmas widely both as a religious and as a social celebration. Today, men, women and children in every Christian land crowd into churches to give their thanks. More than one fourth of the world's population — about 800 million people profess some form of Christian faith.

The splendor and beauty of Christmas observances is very different from the humble stable in Bethlehem where Christ was born; but the message He brought to the world is the same — "Glory be to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

GREETINGS

From all of us to all of you...with hearty good wishes for the holiday season, and with warm appreciation for the privilege of serving you, now and in the years to come.

ANOTHER BOUNTIFUL HARVEST

As American farmers near the end of the harvest season the USDA reported that this year's total crop production equaled last year's harvest and was only 2 points below the 1960 all-time high production.

Corn production set a new record of 62.4 bushels per acre; the soybean harvest is estimated at 639 million bushels; and at 64 million 100-pound bags the rice crop topped last year's harvest by 18 per cent and is 24 per cent above average.

The fall harvest of potatoes is estimated at 191 million hundredweight, and this year's pecan harvest is estimated at only 30 million pounds, the smallest since 1910, only one-third as large as the bumper crop and one-half of the past ten-year average.

This year's cotton harvest is estimated at 14,533,000 bales, 215,000 bales from 1961. Mississippi's 1962 cotton crop is estimated at 1,683,000 bales, 60,000 bales above the 1961 harvest.

Beef production was 67 per cent higher in 1962; with production set a new record, 424 million pounds, and egg production continued at high levels.

All of this means that as we approach Thanksgiving Day, Americans had much for which to be thankful. No other nation is so blessed.

WINNER COULD BE HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR FROM THIS COMMUNITY

A senior high school girl from this community may well be a 600 in college scholarships being among those who will share in $119,000 offered again this year in the ninth annual Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

In past years, winners have come from every type of community — large, small, medium and rural, and from all types of schools, public, private and parochial.

Sponsor of the program is General Mills.

Senior girls have joined with a record number of more than 410,000 others in more than 12,500 of the nation's schools Tuesday (Dec. 4) in a written test to help determine winners in the 1963 Search Program.

The test, prepared by Science Research Associates, Chicago, to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career, is the determining factor in selecting local and state winners. Personal observation and interviews are added factors in selecting national winners.

The 1963 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up will be named in the Spring at the culmination of an expense-paid educational tour of New York City, Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg for winners from the 50 states and the District of Columbia and their advisors.

Scholarships range from $1,000 for each State Homemaker of Tomorrow and $500 for each state runner-up to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively, for top national winners. A complete set of the Encyclopedia Britannica is awarded to the school of each state winner.

Including the 1963 program, close to 3 million girls have participated in the Betty Crocker Search in its nine years of operation. Scholarship grants are approaching the million dollar mark. From the start, the program has been an approved list of national contests and activities of the National A-

DRIVERS SHOULD BE MORE CAREFUL DURING HOLIDAYS

The time has come when Mississippi's drivers should be on their guard more than ever — the Christmas holidays. Increased traffic during this period, shorter tempers, long delays and general fatigue take a toll of tempers as well as lives. The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol suggests two points to remember for holiday drivers.

Don't drive while tired or fatigued, and don't become impatient. These two factors contribute to the largest number of holiday accidents.

Careful planning before each trip can assure that you do not find yourself worn out before the completion of the trip. Fatigue reduces reaction time and makes selection of Secondary School Principals.

Schools in the area which will participate in the program and whose list will be given are: BAY ST. LOUIS HIGH SCHOOL, ST. JOHN THE LAMB HIGH SCHOOL, ST. MARY'S PARISH.

MISSISSIPPI HIGHWAY SAFETY PATROL OFFERS SUGGESTIONS

Stop for just a moment right now and consider two things that have a direct and important bearing on your safety between now and the start of the New Year. One of the factors is the proper operating condition of your vehicle. The other is the proper functioning of the driver's faculties.

The following hints are offered by the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol for the driver's benefit.

Check your car for good brakes, lights, steering, tires and windshield wipers. A weak point in any of these categories can throw you into an accident situation that could be disastrous. Other items need checking during cold weather — defrosters, heaters, etc., can reduce visibility by allowing windows to fog. Check your car's mechanical condition to be on the safe side.

Keeping the driver on the alert is equally important. Don't try to drive while you are fatigued, or when you have had a drink or two. Check your driver's license to insure that it is valid. December 31, is the expiration date for over 180,000 licenses. Take a look at yours now. If it expires December 31, renew now. Don't take a chance on being stopped. A fine will amount to much more than the renewal fee. And driving on an expired license indicates inattention to the business of driving.

Drive carefully this Christmas and have a Happy Holiday.

DRIVING AN UNSAFE VEHICLE CAN BE DISASTROUS

The Christmas season brings a great increase in the volume of traffic — shopping, visiting, business — all are moving at an increased pace. Driving an unsafe automobile during this period of high traffic density can only lead to one conclusion — trouble. The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol has a reminder for the state's drivers — Check your car now for the safety features necessary for your driving safety. The most important items to check are the steering, lights, tires, brakes, and windshield wiper. A lack of or malfunction of any one of these items can place you in the accident or fatality column of the traffic statistics.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection period for 1963 begins the 1st of January and runs through the end of March. Each of the above mentioned items will be checked at the yearly inspection. Before your car will be given one of the new red-and-black 1963 stickers each safety point must meet specifications.

Don't take chances with your life or your family's well being. Get your vehicle in proper condition now and you'll be all set for the holidays, and for the annual inspection in January. The cheapest insurance is a vehicle in good shape.

FORESTRY NOTES

E. P. McMillan of Jackson, Chairman of the Mississippi Forestry Association's Beaver Control Committee today reminded landowners that during the last session of the legislature a law was passed taking beavers off of the list of protected animals.

A landowner who's losing land, pasture crops, or drainage to beavers can now protect himself in any way he sees fit, McMillan explained. He suggested that landowners might inform their friends who are squirrel hunting near trouble areas that they would appreciate their help. "Many times beavers are seen early in the morning and late in the afternoon especially when the hunter is very still and quiet. A load of squirrel shot at close range is deadly but the average beaver weigh 40 to 50 pounds and if shot at normal range would only be wounded. Therefore, it would be well to carry some heavier shot. The only really effective way found to control this animal so far has been an intensive trapping program, McMillan said. He added however that any beaver killed by hunters in trouble spots would be just one more that won't have to be trapped.

As a special project the MFA's Beaver Control Committee is working on several recipes which have proved that the beaver is quite edible. Instructions for proper cleaning and cooking are being assembled by Jim Holifield of Canton and will be released by the Mississippi Forestry Association. The MFA represents individuals and companies from all parts of the state who are interested in better forestry. Serving on the Beaver Control Committee are foresters from state and federal agencies and private industries as well as personnel of the State Game and Fish Commission.

JIM KENNEDY'S CHRISTMAS

BY D.I. ALEXANDER

BEFORE the echoes of the prison siren had died away over the hills Jim Kennedy was well on his way toward a cherished freedom and his family. Where speed had been essential, extreme caution became imperative. He kept below the skyline, well away from the highway with its occasional cars and searching spotlights. Away from the farm houses with their barking dogs. Slogging along through the slush and snow with one thought uppermost in his mind: To spend Christmas at home with his wife Millie and their two children, Marian and Joe.

Back at the prison they would be certain he was headed for home. They might even be waiting for him when he arrived, but there was one thing in his favor: At this time of the year the road to his remote cabin was impossible for cars, and he might get there before they did.

He slogged on for two days and nights. He ate sparingly of the meager food he had fished from the prison tables. The weather was not too cold and he took little rests beneath jutting cliffs and abandoned shacks. But the overpowering desire to reach his home drove him onward, insensible to the discomforts of his travel.

His mind often returned to his prison life. Especially did he think of Lemaster, the guard over his company. He held a bitter, consuming hatred for the man. Always riding him about prison rules, making him toe the mark, but ignoring similar infractions committed by others. Rules! Rules! The man didn't let him live for rehabilitation, but he ruled. He hoped Lemaster would be dead by the time they took him back.

The morning Jim stood on the bluff overlooking the little valley would always remain a bright spot in his memory. The tears that gathered in the corners of his eyes were not the result of cold. The lump in his throat was caused by pent-up emotion, finally released when he realized he had won through.

The mist in the valley raised suddenly and the cabin stood out in startling reality. Smoke poured from the chimney and yellow light splashed from the windows onto the snow.

Somewhat blindly he found the path down to the valley floor. The delighted voices of the children came to him through the mist of snow he kicked up as he rushed to the door. And then he had Millie in his arms.

Welcome Night

There was an interval of silence, and then heart-felt expressions of joy and pleasure. When it had somewhat subsided Jim looked around. The homey surroundings were the same as when he left, excepting the Christmas tree in the corner. It was brilliantly lighted, and numerous packages and toys clustered around the base.

He took a step towards it, but Millie pushed in front of him and, reaching toward the twinkling star at the top, took down a long envelope.

"For you," she said, with a bright smile.

"What is it?" he asked, wondering.

"Open it and see."

"It means a Merry Christmas and a full pardon for you." It was the barred voice of Lemaster who had come up behind him. Jim wrinkled his brow. "You here?" he asked bitterly.

"I knew you wanted to come home long ago, Jim. I had to report on your behavior, and to make sure I could make a good report on you I made you live up to every rule strictly. You passed as a number one, and when the pardons were handed out you were the first."

"Jim had slowly liked his life as a hope sprung away in him. He gazed anxiously into Lemaster's eyes. "I've had you all wrong, Cap. I thought you was riding me all the time for spite work."

"That's all right. Forget it. I'm going to have a Merry Christmas with you folks if you'll let me stay."

crease your chances of being here to enjoy another Christmas.

The cold weather during December makes a vehicle respond sluggishly until it has had time to warm up after starting. Don't make the mistake of taking chances in crossing intersections and entering moving traffic while your car is still cold. If you do so, you may find that your car's engine will quit and you will be stranded.

Keep these cold weather hints in mind this holiday... Drive carefully and have a happy holiday.

CROSS LEADERS SET 1967 DRIVE

(Special) - E. E. Milner, Mississippi Red Cross director and chairman of the 1966 fund drive, predicted yesterday a meeting of key Red Cross volunteers and staff members that next year's state effort to raise funds for the Red Cross programs of the National Red Cross will exceed the modest goals of 1966.

Milner's enthusiasm was expressed by his vice chairman, George Donavan, prominent leader of the two leaders who distinguished themselves in guiding numerous times in community programs and were applauded by the Red Cross staff representatives and volunteer leaders throughout the state.

In a meeting in the directors' room at the First National Bank, a preliminary planning session for the 1967 fund effort was held. Present for the meeting were: Howard Anderson, Atlanta, assistant director for fund raising, American National Red Cross; volunteer regional fund consultants, John H. Mitchell Jr., executive vice president, Peoples Bank of Starkville; W. B. Brannan, president, First National Bank of Canton; R. G. Hastings, president, Volunteer field consultants, Mrs. J. J. Newman and Mrs. Dale E. O'Brien, both of Vicksburg; field representatives, Charles R. Burnett, Hattiesburg; Arthur O. Morehead, Wesson; Joe Ferguson, Jackson; Miss Sarah Barret, Oxford; and Larry Davis, Jackson; volunteer state public relations consultant for Mississippi.

Donovan has announced the appointments of other volunteer regional fund consultants in different areas of the state, including Wade Barton, president, Citizens Bank of Tupelo; G. W. McGivaren, executive vice president, Bank of Clarksdale; L. Y. Foote, Jr., assistant vice president, First National Bank of Hattiesburg; T. S. Leatherbury, executive vice president, Merchants and Marine Bank of Pascagoula; and Jack Yates, chairman, First National Bank of Lexington.

Donovan said that the eight volunteer fund consultants will act as regional organizers and advisors to the local community leaders who have accepted the responsibility of raising funds through the 80 Red Cross chapters in the state.

"I am enthusiastic about our goal of raising funds for the American Red Cross in Mississippi," Milner said. "For years I have been impressed with the many worthwhile and essential services and programs of the Red Cross. Now that Mr. Donavan and I have seen the ready acceptance by key community leaders in Mississippi of the responsibility of raising funds in the 1967 campaign, I am even more impressed and know that their leadership ability, combined with the responsiveness of Mississippi citizens, will assure Red Cross the success that it so richly deserves.

BAY HIGH PTA HELD MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

Bay High School PTA met last Tuesday night with Paul Raynaud, president, presiding. Mrs. W. E. Pilegrim Jr. gave the devotional. It was reported that the benefit show at the Star Theatre last Friday was a success.

The show, sponsored by the PTA, was to raise funds for playground equipment.

Raynaud appointed a committee to select a theme for the carnival celebration.

Following the business session the school band, under the direction of Marcel LaNasa, presented a program of Christmas music, and Mr. LaNasa entertained with several violin selections accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Toy Tedford. Mrs. J. A. Fillingame won the entrance prize.

The third grade mothers were hostesses for the social hour.

Arrangements of musical leaves, Christmas songs, and a Poinsettia decorated Fellowship Hall when the Women's Society of Christian Service held their Christmas tea Wednesday afternoon. USDA ANNOUNCES ASSISTANCE FOR CONVERSION OF CROPLAND
A limited number of farmers in every State will be eligible for cost-share assistance in converting cropland to recreation use in 1963, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today.
These land-use conversions will be a part of the long-range program of land-use adjustment authorized under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962. The Act authorizes assistance to farmers to convert farms from crop production to grass, trees, wildlife, and increase protecting recreation uses. Under this authorization, the government will share with the farmers the cost of conservation measures needed to make the conversions. In addition, adjustment payments are authorized to assist farmers in making the approved conversions.

Greetings
As families gather together in joyous celebration, we extend best Yuletide wishes.

CHRISTMAS DECORATION HIGHLIGHTS HD CLUB MEETING
A Christmas tree with a figure of Santa Claus in one side decorated the living room of the Old

Moran home when the Clermont Harbor Home Demonstration Club met there Monday for its annual Yule party.
Mrs. Moran gave the devotional. Following a brief business session, games were played and gifts exchanged by the members.

Mrs. Moran who witnessed the tournament of roses last year, showed the group a colored film of the event.
The table holding the tea and coffee service was decorated with a red basket of roses, tulips and poinsettia with brass candelabra holding red tapers on either side.

A Christmas wish...

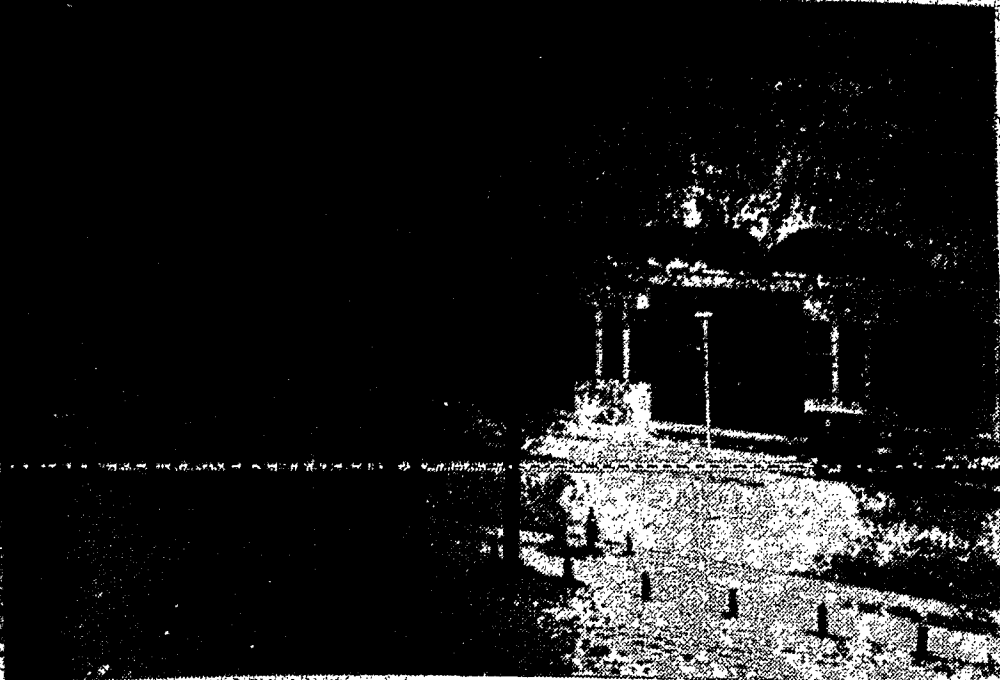

The twinkling lights of this happy season symbolize the joy and gladness proclaimed almost 2,000 years ago. During this time of hope and good will, it is well to reflect on our heritage as a free people and our attendant obligation to nurture and sustain our precious birthright. Freedom is not purchased without a price. All that is necessary for tyranny to triumph is for good men to do nothing. The shining star of Bethlehem that guided the Wise Men to the new born babe is still shining in the hearts of men of wisdom and courage. As a corporate participant in a free society, Mississippi Power recognizes its responsibilities to serve efficiently and dependably. By supplying the electric power to light your Christmas tree and ease your holiday chores, the employees of Mississippi Power feel they are sharing this most precious of all days with you. From us to you, best holiday wishes.

WEED CONTROL

Rock and thistle are coming up in many pastures now. If they are up to a good stand, spray with one pound of 2, 4-D in 10 gallons of water to the acre.

If you have heavy growth of these weeds, you may have to spray twice during the winter. Seed keep coming up all during the winter.

BREEDING DAIRY COWS
It is time now to start thinking about re-breeding dairy cows that freshened in the early fall. Make sure that you give them 50 to 60 days dry period. It takes this long for the reproductive system to get back to normal following calving.

When breeding the cows, consider artificial breeding. It has many advantages. Some of these are:

No dangerous bull will have to be kept on the farm. Services of premium quality sires are available to all dairymen. Few dairymen can afford to own the quality bull that they can use through the Mississippi Artificial Breeders Cooperative. Remember, the kind of bull you use today, determines the kind of replacements you will have three years from now. With artificial breeding you can breed your cows to several different bulls of your particular breed. Artificial breeding is cheaper than owning a bull.

With artificial breeding there is less danger of reproduction diseases. Offspring are worth more because premium quality sires were used.

FIRE-ARM SAFETY

Hunting season is in full swing and it is time we all stopped and checked on our safety scores:

First of all if you plan to buy a gun for your child, make sure that he knows how to use it properly. Then follow these safety rules for safe hunting: Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot.

Shoot for safety... do not shoot at a flat surface. Ricocheting bullets can be dangerous. Know your target before you pull the trigger. Never fire at "something moving in the bushes". Do not climb, jump or run carrying a loaded gun.

Do not release the safety until just before you shoot. Never carry loaded weapons in a car. Never shoot from a moving car.

Unload all guns before entering your home, tent or cabin. Keep small children and irresponsible adults away from guns. Store guns and ammunition in a safe place. If possible under lock and key.

COW MILKER, OR DAIRYMAN?
Which category do you fit in? Are you a dairyman, or do you just milk cows?

Efficiency is the key to dairy profits. The dairyman makes profit. The cow milker seems to work for the fun of it.

A DAIRYMAN:
Keeps herd records and uses them in managing his business. Improves his pasture. Feeds hay every day. Makes full use of silage. Feeds concentrates according to production. Feeds up adequate feed reserves. Takes his herd to pasture, mixed by the best bulls available. Actively supports his marketing problems.

A COW MILKER:
Thinks too much time is required to keep records. Anyway, he can do as good a job without them. Depends on native grass entirely, too expensive to fool with improved pastures. Rations hay feeding, and hay is hay regardless of quality. Has no place on his farm for silage. He knows someone who had a sad experience with it.

Feeds every cow the same - with a scoop. Cannot afford to put up feed reserves since he has no long-time plans for staying in the dairy business. Always ends up buying when the price is the highest. There will be no drought next year.

FIRE PROTECTION

Want to reduce possibility of loss from woods fires? Here are some ideas that may help:

Personally ask your neighbors to help you protect your timber by being careful with fire. Let him know that you consider your trees a crop.

Notify the local Area Forester or nearest fire fighting crew if you have a fire or see a fire untended.

Keep fire fighting tools in a designated place so they will be available if needed.

Beneath this 'Christmas Tree'... Natural Gas!

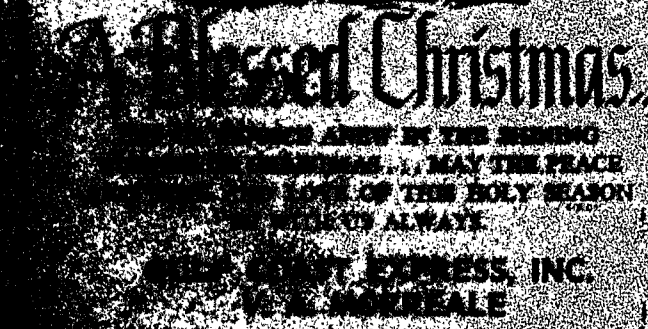

Yes, it's a Christmas Tree — a complex assembly of valves mounted at the head of a gas well to control the flow of gas from the well. A whole "forest" of Christmas Trees, thousands of them, feed gas into the United Gas system. They are one of the few visible signs of the vast investment that has gone into wells, pipelines and distribution systems to provide dependable natural gas service to the Gulf South area we serve. Most of that investment is underground — in steel pipes which carry gas to our 600,000 customers. If placed end to end, our gathering, transmission and distribution lines would reach clear around the world. The next time you see a "Christmas Tree," think of United Gas — and its wonderful service to the cities and towns of the Gulf South.

BURLINGAME, Calif.
Spectators proudly boast it's the country's largest, live outdoor Nativity scene.

The Christmas pageant being staged for the 12th straight year by the First Baptist Church includes tools and treasures 2,000 years old, unearthed in Palestine during archaeological expeditions by the pastor, Dr. Cecil G. Osborne.

Workmen have recreated a Bethlehem street of shops and a Palestinian home.

A cast of 70 acts out the Nativity story every 12 minutes between 7 and 9:30 p. m. nightly before a 150-foot long three-dimensional set which depicts the Bethlehem hills.

Heavy, dippy fog continued to plague most of Mississippi during the morning today as high temperatures ruled over the mid-South during the night with occasional light rain in Arkansas.

Most of the fog dissipated by mid-morning.

Cooler air is scheduled to move into Mississippi by noon Thursday, and the weather predicts a little rainfall during the latter part of the week.

Temperatures will reach into the 60s and 70s today and the low for tonight will be in the 30s, 40s, and 50s.

Holy Night

The choir sings with near-celestial sweetness, the candles burn with a bright, pure light, and the meaning of the birth of Christ comes into glorious reality.

For, in church, the story of the Night of Nights is told with a beauty that seems to deepen with the years. To miss hearing it again would be to miss one of the Yuletide season's greatest moments.

Yes - it is natural to think about going to church at Christmas. But what about a rainy October Sunday or a hot July one?

In Church, the inspiration is there all year round. The message is as vital in August as it is in December. Promise yourself now - this Christmas - to start going to church regularly.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a school of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four main reasons why every person should attend church regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his family. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
